

Chamberlain Names New CEO

In April, James J. Roberts began his new role as Chamberlain's chief executive officer, replacing J. David Rolls, who previously announced his retirement.

Prior to joining Chamberlain, Roberts most recently served as president and CEO of Igloo Products. Before that, he served in executive positions within Newell-Rubbermaid, including executive group president of the Cleaning, Organization, Décor, and Office Products Group.

Previously, Roberts was president of Worldwide Hand Tools and Hardware at The Stanley Works, and he spent 19 years at Black & Decker in various positions including president of Worldwide Accessories and vice president and general manager of the company's European Professional Power Tools Group.

Roberts, age 51, holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Delaware. ■

Chet McKee, Former NAGDM President, Dies

On May 19, former garage door industry leader David Chetham "Chet" McKee died of lung cancer at age 71. McKee had most recently served as CEO of Rush-Copley Medical Center in Aurora, Ill., where he was considered a visionary leader who knew the names of all employees.

McKee served as president and CEO of McKee Door in Aurora, Ill., until it was sold in 1986. He was also involved in the formation of the National Association of Garage Door Manufacturers (NAGDM) in 1968. He later served as NAGDM president from 1971 to 1972.

Prior to working at McKee Door, which was founded by his grandfather in 1928, Chet McKee served in the Army infantry and Army Reserve. After McKee was sold, he served as president of two other area firms before becoming chairman of the board of directors of Copley Memorial Hospital in Aurora, which became Rush-Copley in 1995.

McKee also served on the boards of several non-profit organizations including the Chamber of Commerce, United Way, and Salvation Army. McKee held a bachelor's degree in business from the University of Illinois.

He is survived by his wife of 43 years, Linda, a son and two daughters, two brothers, John and Paul McKee, and five grandchildren. ■

Chamberlain Promotes Ken Roehl

In March, Chamberlain announced the promotion of Ken Roehl to vice president of sales and marketing for Chamberlain Professional Products.

Starting at Chamberlain 31 years ago as a marketing assistant, Roehl has served as a regional sales manager, national accounts manager, marketing manager, and director. In his new role as vice president of sales and marketing, Roehl is responsible for the inside and outside sales groups as well as national account programs.

Roehl has received several industry awards and has served as president of the Far West Garage Door Association, a director for the International Door Association, and as president of the Door & Access Systems Manufacturers Association. Roehl holds a bachelor's degree from St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn. ■

Larry Campbell Promoted at Hörmann

In March, Hörmann announced the promotion of industry veteran Larry Campbell to the position of senior vice president of sales and marketing.

With more than 25 years of industry experience, Campbell helped develop Hörmann's sales and marketing strategies and launch new product lines for North American markets. Campbell joined Hörmann three years ago. In his new role, he will oversee and direct the sales, marketing, and distribution strategies for both Hörmann and Hörmann Flexon. ■

Chamberlain Appoints New General Counsel

In May, Chamberlain announced that Eric A. Reeves is the company's new executive vice president, general counsel, and secretary, replacing Mark Tone, who previously announced his retirement.

Reeves has served as vice president, general counsel, and secretary of The Duchossois Group since May 2007. Since accepting his new role with Chamberlain, Reeves is now responsible for all legal matters for both companies and their affiliated entities.

Prior to working with The Duchossois Group, Reeves served as partner with McDermott Will & Emery, where he focused on corporate banking and mergers and acquisitions. Reeves, 37, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and a J.D. from The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. ■
